Rebalancing the workforce composition may help to increase productivity and realign workloads based on seniority...

- Realign workforce composition (i.e., more 'junior' level 5) so more senior staff don't 'dip down'
- Productivity improvements due to improved project management and partnership management capability reduce headcount by 10%

Total Cost of Employment = 2.39M

Total Cost of Employment = 1.95M

Public Utilities Org Case Study Summary of Workforce Priorities

1

Restructure / redefine work processes to ensure that work is being done by the right person at the right level to support growth, and increase productivity

2

Align contractor process with the workforce to get a better understanding of the total cost of the workshop and what is the optimal outsourcing mix to achieve flexibility and innovation, but minimise costs.

3

Define career paths and supporting development opportunities to improve ability to 'build' talent internally

4

Articulate desired culture and develop supporting Employee Value Proposition that engages the workforce and aligns with the organisation more broadly

Mercer's Top Tips

Have a clear but flexible methodology

The workforce plan is owned by the business, but the process is driven by HR

Focus on your critical workforce segments

Plan for more than one outcome

Find the right people (and skills) to support the process

Your workforce plan should tell a story

Workforce planning is not an “event”

Closing Thought

What are you doing to make sure you will have the right people, in the right job, at the right time?
