11:15	12.00	Professional identity: Helping us flourish in our roles This session examines what professional identity is and its role in helping us feel a sense of belonging and psychological safety. It will explore how multi-professional working and integration can impact professional identity, including some of the reactions we might be feeling in these scenarios. It will use identity theory, the latest research and real-life examples to enable attendees to better understand how they can help themselves and others feel supported and flourish in the multi-professional teams.	Dr Fiona Chatten Primary Care Development Lead, North East and North Cumbria ICB
12:00	12.45	E.L.E.V.A.T.E. Performance Using Compassion Using my ELEVATE model, tap into innate human-based leadership strategies to connect meaningfully with your people whilst improving organisational effectiveness.	Michelle Harte Founder, HR EsQue
12:45	13.45	Lunch
13.45	14.30	Cultural Intelligence Cultural Intelligence is the ability to relate and work effectively in multicultural situations. Like Emotional Intelligence, Cultural Intelligence is a skill that can be developed by everyone. It is required to be an effective leader in the diverse, global and digital world we find ourselves operating in.	Ritika Wadhwa Chief Executive Officer, Prabhaav Global
14:30	15:00	PPMA Members Priorities and Challenges We are pleased to be able to share the findings from our survey of our membership. Our aim was to find out more about the priorities and key challenges for our members in the year ahead so we can better understand how to focus the PPMA offer. It's also helpful to understand the positioning of HR teams and the value placed on them. Looking at the results, it's no surprise that we're tackling such a wide range of strategic and operational issues.	Gordon McFarlane PPMA President
